Free Webinars: Gender-Inclusive Puberty Education

Gender Spectrum recently released a landmark publication outlining the first-ever comprehensive principles for gender-inclusive puberty and health education (PHE). Coming up in May, we are offering free webinars for parents and two webinars for professionals to learn more about this resource and how you can use it to help communicate with the children and young people in your lives.

A Free Webinar for School Health Professionals:

Principles of Gender-Inclusive Puberty and Health Education

from

Gender Spectrum and The American School Health Association

With the emergence of gender diversity as a topic that schools are navigating in new and varied ways, school health professionals are often on the frontlines of these efforts. One area in particular—puberty and health education—is especially seen as a place where gender diversity is showing up as never before. In this hour, you can learn how health education can reflect the gender diversity of your students and get valuable information about gender for all students. Based on the newly released principles from Gender Spectrum, the webinar will address the rationale for gender-inclusive instruction and give you concrete ways you can help students of all genders feel safe, seen and supported in your school community. ASHA members can receive free continuing education (CE) credits, and CE credits are available for purchase by non-members.

A Free Webinar for Educators:

Principles of Gender-Inclusive Puberty and Health Education

from Gender Spectrum and GLSEN

Enter your information here to see a recording of this webinar from Tuesday, May 14, 2019

With the emergence of gender diversity as a topic that schools are navigating in new and varied ways, one area in particular—puberty and health education—is seen as a place where the need for a sharper gender lens is especially critical. Unfortunately, GLSEN’s 2017 school climate report found that only 6.7% of LGBTQ students reported receiving LGBTQ-inclusive sex education and, overall, Transgender students were more likely than all other students to have negative experiences at school. Gender Spectrum’s first-ever comprehensive principles for gender-inclusive puberty and health education (PHE) has valuable information for all individuals providing this crucial content, or helping schools think about how to do so. Join Gender Spectrum and GLSEN for this free webinar with more information on this landmark resource, research to support your own advocacy, and some tips for applying it in your own context!

Free Webinars: Understanding Gender for Parents, Families and Friends

Is there someone in your life you would like to have a deeper appreciation for gender diversity? Or maybe you would like to learn more yourself? This might be the perfect fit! Gender Spectrum’s Pam Wool will host an online webinar on “Understanding Gender” geared towards parents, family and friends.

We would love to hear your questions ahead of time, so please include them in your registration form and we will do our best to have Pam answer them. We hope you and/or your family and friends will join us!

You can join the webinar by Zoom online or by telephone. If you are joining zoom for the first time, we suggest joining a few minutes early, as you may need to download a plugin in order to access Zoom. Webinars will take place at 5:00pm PT/8:00pm ET on the following dates:
